

In article results introduction studying of 4 representatives of genus Oenothera L. are resulted from a collection of the Botanical garden-institute of the Ufa center of science of the Russian Academy of Sciences. Their seed efficiency is studied at cultivation in the conditions of a forest-steppe zone of Bashkir Preduralja. Prospects of use of synthetic regulators of growth for increase of seed efficiency are shown.