

In the 2013 we carried out studying of phenological indicators of species and varieties of bulbous plants to identify promising to the stability of the ecological- climatic conditions of the Lower Volga region and decorative indicators. Are presented the preliminary results of the introduction of new varieties of lilies, tulips and daffodils in the article.