

The results of studying of biological net reproduction, reproductive energy, development rhythm, resistance to diseases for some cultivars of lilies from the division of Asian cross- breeds are presented in this article. Appreciable varieties are distinguished.